

ENGAGING THE WORLD LEADING
——— the conversation on environmental justice

LECTURE SERIES

BRINGING THE FIGHT FOR ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE TO
ORANGE COUNTY

Wednesday, September 15, 2021
4:00 p.m.

Special Guests:

Patricia Flores and Kayla Asato from Orange County Environmental Justice
(<https://www.ocej.org/>)

Zoom link: chapman.zoom.us

Formed in 2016, Orange County Environmental Justice Educational Fund (OCEJ) is a multi-cultural, multi-ethnic environmental justice organization. We are developing grassroots leadership and advancing an environmental justice agenda within the ancestral homelands of the Acjachemen and Tongva Nations, now known as Orange County, California. Our mission is to fight for environmental justice by mobilizing and empowering marginalized community members.

Bringing the fight for environmental justice to Orange County through advocacy, public accountability, healing, and systemic transformation.

For more information on the Engaging the World series, visit our website www.chapman.edu/wilkinson/about/events/etw-environmental-justice.aspx

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences